

Page 2
September 6, 2002
United States Patent and Trademark Office

The Patent Office has requisitioned a substitute paper copy in computer readable form of the sequence listing, and a statement that the content of the paper and computer readable copies are the same and, where applicable, include no new matter.

The Patent Office has indicated that the use of n's are present, and has requisitioned an explanation of which residue n represents. In response, the location of the n's and which residue n represents has been indicated.

For sequence 11, the Patent Office has requisitioned the source of the genetic material. In response, the source of the genetic material has been indicated.

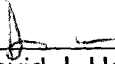

The content of the paper and computer readable copies are the same, and include no new matter.

It is respectfully submitted that the present that the present amendment and remarks herein are a complete response to all outstanding issues. Favorable consideration is respectfully requested.

Yours very truly,

NOVANEURON INC.

By:

David J. Heller, Reg. No. 43,384

DJH:lc
Encls.